The Wood County Training School Graduates a Large Class.

The commencement exercises of the Wood County Training School were given at the assembly hall of the Lincoln high school on Wednesday evening last, and were well attended. The commencement address was delivered by Prof. J. E. Sims, and was listened to with great interest by those in attendance, as it was full of educational matter. Mr. Sims is one of the foremost educators in the state, and has recently been elected president of the Stevens Point Normal school. In presenting their diplomas to the graduates Mr. Sims made the following remarks:

The establishing of the Normal Training School in Wood County was an important milestone in this county's development. It showed that education was keeping pace with the building of industries, the clearing of farms and the general prosperity of the county.

Within the memory of some here Wood County was almost an unbroken wilderness and with the exception of a few, in and around this city, there were almost no schools in the county. During thirty years, owing to the untiring energy of the people, the county has been transformed into beautiful farms, thriving villages and cities, and that same determination and self-sacrifice has called for the development of our schools and the education of the children. It was thus ever growing demand by the people for better schools, better teachers and greater opportunities for this rising generation, that brought this training school into existence. Every citizen may justly feel proud of the part they have contributed to the well-being of the institution. In the future every citizen should gladly give his assistance and encouragement, so that this school may maintain its present station among the best in the state. Let our aim now be to make it the very best.

With the students of this institution too, rests an obligation. Undoubtedly your parents have made great sacrifices, so that you might have the advantage of this training; the teachers of the school have given you of their very best, and you, who are finishing your school work here, should bear in mind that wherever you go, you will be held as an example of the man or woman that this school turns out.

The standing of the institution in the community rests with you and upon the success to which you attain in your work. With you rests the responsibility of making yourself a credit to your benefactors, your teachers, your school. With your success will come great satisfaction to those who have made this school possible. Your obligation commences when you receive from this school your diploma which enables you to go out and commence your work. This certificate has no intrinsic value, but reminds you of your duty to the school, to yourself and to the pupil. This diploma is notice to you that you are pushed out into the world to shift for yourselves among the ever crowding, growing throng.

Do not expect that your training here is all that is needed for your success, for if that is your opinion, your career will be very uncertain. If you have learned here the actions of the walk, the gestures, the actions of your teachers; if you have learned set rules, word by word, the first thing you will have to do is to forget these rules and methods, because you go forth firmly convinced that because of the training and development of mind, the broadening of your views, you are fitted to act and judge for yourself on questions that arise. If you are going to continually fall back on your text books, or hesitate to wonder what your teacher would do under such circumstances, your time will be wasted, trying to fit the real to the theoretical. You have been specially trained for the work of teaching. Take your place in that work with every confidence in your self that you are thoroughly capable of performing the service.

This confidence in yourself will soon inspire the respect and cooperation of your pupils. Your success as a teacher, will depend upon your first day's work. Some thoughtless act or lack of judgment on your part may prejudice your pupils forever. Your success depends upon exerting yourself to the utmost. Your influence and discipline depend upon the impression the children form of you and no one can judge and form conclusions so quickly as a child. You have the responsibility of shaping the lives of the coming generation. Very much depends upon your example and advice. The most sensitive nature may be hidden beneath the roughest outward appearance. An unkind word may discourage and change the whole life of some overburdened little heart.

You are in a position to give courage and hope; to shape the lives of many; to stimulate ambitious and broaden ideas. You are to remind them of their duty to the best that is in them, to rear their thoughts and lead their desires into paths of great knowledge.

On Thursday evening the class day program was given, and this was made up of music, recitations, class prophecy, etc., and was given entirely by the members of the school. It was a very interesting program and was highly appreciated by those in attendance.

strative new friend there as she ran across recently. On one of the busiest corners, where the crossing is as dangerous and as difficult as any mount-tain pass was in the old days, the train was waiting; and the sense of death was waiting; and the fear—fear—of death—ignorance. She was startled almost instinctively from the passing dangers of the horse race, was patiently standing the corner by the curb, watching the passing cars and his master.
She hurriedly thrust the dazed deerfoot to the sidewalk out of her way. She bumped into the horse. Both were surprised, and both begged pardon in their own ways. The said, rapturously:

bing his nose against her sleeve. Then the girl started across the street, and more and more she was half way over. He felt a light touch on her shoulder and at the same time heard several men laughing. To surprise, she looked to see what could be happening. There stood the policeman's hat upon the ground. The girl's hand was on the policeman's shoulder looking pleadingly at her. The next stream of traffic for this was a bus, center, but many people stopped to see the strange sight. The next instant the gruff officer had brusquely called to the horse, and when the horse was to the curb, the girl quite rudely grasped the rein and took the horse away from the table.

RUBBER HEELS WITH FLAT

Washington Landladies Exploit Them in Agreement to Keep

Washington, D. C.—The rubber heels with flat soles, which have been the fashion for some time, are being exploited by the landladies of the city. They have agreed to keep the heels flat, and to charge a high price for them. This is a very unfair practice, and it is being protested against by the tenants. They say that the heels are not worth the price charged for them, and that they are being kept flat for the purpose of making a profit. They say that the heels are being kept flat for the purpose of making a profit, and that they are being kept flat for the purpose of making a profit.

PERPLEXED HOSTESS.

SOME SUGGESTIONS THAT MAY PROVE OF HELP.

The First Year Comes the Cotton Wedding—May Be Made a Gay Affair—Some Astrological Lore.

One year of wedded life brings the "cotton" anniversary, and it may be made a most attractive affair. So soon after the original ceremony it will probably not be a difficult matter to arrange for a second of the bridal party, and this alone will make the affair a memorable one. First the bride and groom, and then the bridesmaids and groomsmen, and then the guests. The bride and groom should be the center of the party, and the bridesmaids and groomsmen should be the next. The guests should be the last. The bride and groom should be the center of the party, and the bridesmaids and groomsmen should be the next. The guests should be the last.

Smart Afternoon Dress.

A Charming and Picturesque Costume This, One of the Prettiest That Have Appeared.

This is a very charming dress in Empire style; it has a plain, short bodice, to which the skirt is set in gathers. The foot is trimmed with three shaped bouffants put on with curved ends terminating each side at the center front. The bodice is a little full on the bust, the fullness being gathered into the skirt. The skirt is full at the waist, and is gathered into the bodice. The skirt is full at the waist, and is gathered into the bodice.

INCLINED TO FRECKLE.

To Purify Saloons.

The United States Brewers' Association, which has just closed its annual convention at Indianapolis, has recommended to the National Association of American Brewers that the brewing industry upon a high plane and make the products of the industry more of a national drink than at present. Many favorable newspaper comments have been created by the following resolutions adopted by the convention:

"Resolved, That this convention heartily congratulates the many brewing associations in states and cities that have taken the lead in upholding low and vice resorts and in refusing to supply beer to saloons that were not approved by the public sentiment of their respective communities.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that all our members continue in this wise policy, so that the American public may be more quickly taught that American beer is a promoter of genuine temperance, a beverage for the home and the family.

"Resolved, That we urge every brewer to so work that the true quality of his product will be fully understood and appreciated, and that the true value of our product, both as a food and as a beverage, and we recommend that each brewer frequently call attention to the fact that there is no better standard in beer as to produce drinkableness, when drunk unmixed with acid stimulants.

Resolved, That the immense increase in the consumption of American beer has done more to establish sobriety than all the prohibitory laws in existence and will be the means of a true solution of the drink problem and the establishment of ideal temperance, besides showing the confidence the American public has in the purity and value of the national drink."

During the convention the interesting fact was brought out that the Texas brewers have for two years spent $10,000 each month in closing vice saloons and low dives. The association has the best legal talent to be found, a corps of trained detectives and secures its own evidence against saloon keepers who do not run orderly places. The Texas brewers have received the praise of the leading prohibition papers and of the best citizens generally. In it is stated that the detectives of the Texas brewers closed three times as many saloons as the police officials of other various cities.

The intention of the brewers of the country is, it is announced, to make beer a drink that can be taken in a soda water fountain or anywhere else without subjecting any one to criticism. The New York Herald, in a leading editorial as to safe and healthy summer drinks, classed beer as the foremost and best calculated to do harm in warm weather.

For Self Supporting Students.

Secretary E. F. Riley of the regents of the University of Wisconsin, has just published a pamphlet descriptive of ways and means employed by self-supporting students in earning their way through the university. The pamphlet, which was prepared by a student of the university who investigated the subject recently, gives a complete summary of the opportunities for obtaining work by students who desire to support themselves during their university course, and is intended for distribution to prospective students interested in the subject. The statistics given in the pamphlet show that the number of self-supporting students at the University of Wisconsin is larger than ever before, and that the demand for student help has often exceeded the supply.

Notice Regarding McKinley Memorial Certificates.

The McKinley Memorial Memorial Association of Canton, Ohio, having decided that it is impracticable to reach each individual contributor to the McKinley Memorial fund, has appointed Francis H. Whitney of Milwaukee, agent for the State of Wisconsin, and the certificates remaining on hand at the time of the death of President McKinley, have been deposited with the Wisconsin Trust Company of Milwaukee.

These certificates will be issued to all persons entitled to them, upon application to Mr. Whitney at the office of the Wisconsin Trust Company, Pabst Building, Milwaukee.

Co-operate For Good Roads.

The State Geological Survey has been fortunate in securing the cooperation of the Post Office Department in collecting information on the condition of the roads. There are no persons who travel the roads as faithfully every day at all seasons of the year, as the Rural Delivery Carriers, and none who are better qualified to tell of them. They know every rut and bad spot, and every broken culvert as well as the good places.

In response to a request from Mr. W. O. Hutchins, who has charge of Economic Geology for the State Survey, the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General has sent a letter to postmasters in the state asking them to furnish the State Survey with all the information desired about roads along the Rural Free Delivery routes. In a few days a list of questions will be sent to each Rural Free Delivery Carrier. The answers will furnish information that will be as detailed as could be obtained in any way by the state, and through the kindness of the Post Office Department, will be practically nothing. There are about 30,000 Rural Delivery Carriers in the state, and their routes aggregate something like 27,000 miles of roads, or about one-half of the total mileage of roads in the state. By this means a fair road census of about half a million miles of roads at but a few dollars for postage in sending out a few lines of questions, while any other means that could be used for collecting the information would cost at least a conservative estimate, several thousand dollars.

The information thus obtained, will assist in putting the Geological Survey in position to advise as to the best methods of making roads in any part of the state.

It is of interest to note that Wisconsin is the second state in which this novel method of collecting data on roads is used. The scheme was originated and first used in Illinois by Mr. A. N. Johnson of the Illinois Highway Commission. The willingness of the Post Office Department to co-operate is evidence of their strong appreciation of the necessity of good roads for cheap and efficient delivery service. They are anxious to assist in any way possible in getting the rural districts to keep their roads in the best possible condition.

The fact that the Post Office, whose carriers form an extremely small part of the travel over the country roads, is anxious to cut expenses by having better roads for its carriers to travel, is strong evidence that the farmers themselves would have much money if the roads were improved and kept in proper shape.

MARSHFIELD.

(From the News.)

Clarence Reynolds came up Monday to meet his wife, who had been visiting her parents at Greenwood. He says that a new Auburndale is fast arising out of the ruins of the recent fire. The R. Connor Co. is excavating for the new store building, which will be 60 by 90 feet, two stories high, with basement. It will be built of brick, and equipped with all the conveniences of modern times. George Schmidt will complete the foundation for his hotel this week. This will also be built of brick and heated by steam. Louis Koller is unskilled as to the material to be used in his building. It will be considerably larger than the one destroyed by fire, especially the hall. Mrs. Friederich has begun the erection of a warehouse which will be used for store purposes until she can put up a new building. In addition to this work, a sewer 1000 ft. long is being built. It is also said, but not by Mr. Reynolds, that an electric lighting plant will be built this summer.

George H. Reynolds and Prof. H. C. Fish opened up one of the Indian mounds at Rice Lake this week and found two skeletons, some pottery and a quantity of charcoal, all of which was carefully picked up and brought to this city. The bones were so badly decayed that careful handling is necessary to prevent falling to pieces. From the fact that the mound builders was an extinct race prior to the time the modern Indians inhabited this section, and judging also by the state of preservation in which the bones were found, Prof. Fish believes the mounds must have been placed there 500 to 800 years ago. The jaw bones show a splendid set of teeth, well preserved and with the enamel intact. Three of them are badly worn, probably from grinding a pipe. The wear, according to a dentist's opinion, indicates that the Indian chief was about forty years of age. Four huge trees marked the spot and these seemed to be fully 200 years old.

Albert Underwood, 74 years of age, arrived here Saturday from Waupun and applied to the authorities for help. He said his home was at Oakland, and after the earthquake, in order to visit an old friend at Waupun, took advantage of the free transportation offered at that time to people wishing to come back to the states. Arriving at Waupun he found that his old friend had long since passed away and being without friends or money, he asked to be returned to his California home. Arriving here he was given lodging and transportation to Stevens Point where he claimed he was acquainted with Supt. Horn of the Wisconsin Central. He also said that many years ago, before Jim Hill got to be the railroad magnate he now is, they worked together with the shovel.

Acting upon the recommendation of Mayor M. A. Upham, made to the council some weeks ago, the police department is now supplied with a commodious roll top desk and a police register in which will appear the name, description and date of arrest or keeping of all who come within the clutches of the law. It is just what was needed long ago and the men of brass buttons and blue coats are proud of the new system.

Postmaster John E. Cole is confronted with another grave responsibility. He received notice last week from the department at Washington that his salary had been increased $100. The receipts of the office for the past year were over $9000 more than the previous year.

Bosses running for the office of district attorney, R. E. Andrews is nursing a broken finger received in a practice game of baseball last Saturday. The broken member is the one that sticks out farthest on the left hand, and of course got in the way of the ball.

Fifty boys, ranging in age from 13 to 15 years, have been placed by Herman Eater among the farmers in this section who are engaged in raising sugar beets. They will assist in cultivating the plants and are paid 50 cents a day and board.

HANSEN. Mrs. Henry Baado has returned to her home, after being in the hospital for the past two weeks in your city. Theo. Alberts and Ed. Mannigan of Vesper were here on business last Friday.

Mrs. F. H. Otto was shopping in Vesper last Saturday.

G. E. McKee transacted business in Pittsville last Saturday.

Fred and Chas. Lipke transacted business in Vesper Saturday.

We learned at this writing that Adolph Alberts of Mayville is going to be with us this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Otto were shopping in your city last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Theel spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wickman.

E. D. Otto left for your city last Sunday.

The masons are at work building Geo. Baxter's basement for his new house.

Board of Review met Monday at the town hall at this place.

Frank Karp returned home from Park Falls last Wednesday.

Fred Hankie returned to his home after being at Bruce the past year.

Messias Woodruff and Maxwell were guests of Mrs. F. H. Otto Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Baxter Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Otto.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Alberts spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McKee.

WESTERN LOGGING.

Some Ways in Which it Differs From Methods Pursued in Wisconsin.

To the editor of the Tribune:

For a half century one of the great industries of Wisconsin, has been the lumbering business, and there is hardly an old resident of the state that has not at one time or another, engaged in the business in some capacity. At one time I was engaged in logging in Wisconsin myself, and knew most of the turns of the business, but when I came to the state of Washington a number of years ago, I found them pursuing such entirely different methods that it seemed almost like a new business to me. Probably the most striking difference between the two methods is the fact that here on the Pacific coast, the logging is practically all done during the summer months, instead of the winter, as in Wisconsin, and during the winter months here the camps are shut down.

To follow the operations in cutting a tree in detail from the beginning until it is landed at the sawmill is somewhat as follows:

We will suppose that the tree is about seven feet in diameter on the stump, and many of them are much larger than this. The first man to go to work on it is the undercutter, who first chops in a narrow notch as high as he can work, the notch about three inches in depth. Into this he puts a so-called spring board, which is a piece of plank about four feet long fitted with an iron on the end to keep it in the notch. He climbs onto this board and proceeds to cut another notch similar to the first, and into this he puts another board and moves up another step, and he may repeat this for three or four times until he is anywhere from eight to twelve feet above the ground. This is to bring him above the trunk of the tree and also to get above the pitch, as almost all red fir is very hard and full of pitch near the ground.

When he is up to the required height he proceeds to undercut or cut a notch or kerk in the side of the tree toward the way it is to fall. This requires good judgment and plenty of skill, for if the tree strikes another tree or stump in falling, it will spoil more timber than the man's wages amount to. The kerk may be from 12 to 24 inches in depth and from four to six feet in length. I have seen one that a man could lie down in with ease. Of course to do this requires a long ax handle and a chopper who can chop either right or left handed.

The undercutter's wages are from $3.00 to $5.00 per day, according to his ability. After finishing his kerk he leaves the tree and starts for another to go thru the same operation again. He is followed by the skidder who takes advantage of the notch cut by the undercutter, and cuts away as they need them, and then they proceed to saw the tree head faller of the fallers is called head faller and the other second faller or helper, and the wages are from $2.75 to $3.25.

After two or three or maybe five hours work, depending on the lean and size of the tree, it starts slowly to fall, and there is a cry of "timber!" from the fallers, which gives the other workmen in the vicinity a chance to get to a place of safety. The tree may be from 200 to 300 feet in height and reaches quite a distance in the woods. In falling it strikes the other trees and branches which are broken off and sent flying thru the air in all directions, and these cause many accidents to workmen who are luckless enough to be in their way.

When the tree is on the ground the next man to go to work on it is the "hooker," this term being taken from the hook-saw. In this case it is a cross-cut saw, seven, eight or nine feet in length run by one man, who measures the prostrate tree usually into 20, 22, or 24 foot lengths, also if it is for some special use it may run up to 150 feet in length, and he proceeds to "hook" or cut it into the required length. After the hooker comes the "swampers" who clear a trail to the logs by removing some of the small brush and trees, cutting the logs, and then the logs are loaded on to a skid or a dolly, and are hauled to the landing by means of a cable and a donkey.

The log is then hauled to the landing by means of a cable and a donkey. The log is then hauled to the landing by means of a cable and a donkey. The log is then hauled to the landing by means of a cable and a donkey.

The log in moving out tears out small stumps, uproots trees as much as 18 inches in diameter, ploughs deep furrows in some places, gouges large holes in others, and has to be stopped frequently to enable the log to be taken out of blocks, so it will lead right. If the distance is short to the landing the log arrives in a very little time, and is dragged alongside. Here the "hooker" is taken off and the loading "donkey" started ridding it up the skidway to the cars. The cars are simply four-wheeled trucks connected with a chain so that they can be coupled apart or near together in any length of log. The "hooker" attends to the way the logs are put onto the trucks, which may vary in number from one to a dozen or more, according to size.

After enough cars are loaded to make a train the locomotive is coupled on and away they go for salt water, or the sawmill, as the case may be. Upon arriving at their destination the cars, to aid the undercutter, are run onto a track that is much higher on one side than the other, the binding chains are taken off and with the aid of "logging jacks" the logs are rolled into the water. The logging jack is a tool something like a wagon jack, only very powerful; so much so that a heavy man can lift five or six thousand pounds with the aid of one of them. Of course they are very fast in the work.

This is the way logging is done in most of the larger camps in Washington, although many thousand feet of log taken out every year over the old style skid road both by steam and horsepower. The skid road is made by half burying logs or stumps of about 12 to 18 inches in diameter every eight feet along the length of the road. These are well grazed with old oil or some cheap oil or grease and the logs are dragged over them. When using steam power and cable there will sometimes be a string of logs coupled together looking, at a distance, like a large snake a quarter of a mile in length crawling slowly to the water. This plan, however, is only practicable when the haul is short.

HEDGEHOGS.

Venom of the Most Poisonous Snake Does Not Affect Them.

An interesting fact about hedgehogs that perhaps not many persons know is that the bites of even the most poisonous serpents have no effect on them whatever. Mr. Lewis, a naturalist, once watched a fight between a hedgehog and a viper and gives the most interesting description of it. He says that the snake began to crawl toward the hedgehog and when it was within a few feet of the hedgehog it raised its head and struck it. The hedgehog did not seem to be hurt in the least, and the snake, after striking it, withdrew and began to crawl away. The hedgehog then turned and followed the snake, and the snake, after striking it, withdrew and began to crawl away. The Wood County Training School Graduates a Large Class

The commencement exercises of the Wood County Training School were given at the assembly hall of the Lincoln high school on Wednesday evening last, and were well attended. The commencement address was delivered by Prof. J. J. Sims, and was listened to with great interest by those in attendance as it was full of interest to those who are interested in educational matters. Mr. Sims is one of the foremost educators in the state and has recently been elected president of the Stevens Point Normal school. In presenting their diplomas to the graduates Mr. Conno made the following remarks:

The establishing of the Normal Training School in Wood County was an important milestone in this county's development. It showed that education was keeping pace with the building of industries, the clearing of farms and the general prosperity of the county.

Within the memory of some here Wood County was almost an unbroken wilderness and with the exception of a few in and around this city, there were almost no schools in the county. During thirty years, owing to the untiring energy of the people the county has been transformed into beautiful farms, thriving villages and cities and that same determination and self sacrifice, has called for the development of our schools and the education of the children. It was this ever growing demand for the people for better schools better teachers and greater opportunities for the rising generation, that brought this training school into existence. I joyfully believe in the future of this school and in the future of the county.

The standing of the institution in the community rests with you and upon the success to which you attain in your work. With you rests the responsibility of making yourself a credit to your benefactors your teachers, your school. With your success will come great satisfaction to those who have made this school possible. Your obligation commences when you receive from this school your diploma which enables you to go out and commence your work. This certificate has no intrinsic value but represents your duty to the school. This diploma is a notice to you that you are pushed out into the world to shift for yourselves among the ever growing growing things.

Do not expect that your training here is all that is needed for your success for it is your own opinion your career will be very uncertain. If you have learned here to imitate the walls, the postures, the schools of your teachers if you have learned set rules word by word the first thing you will have to do is to forget these rules and methods. You need go forth firmly convinced that you are going to do it. You need go forth on questions that arise. If you are going to continually fall back on your text books or hesitate to wonder what your teacher would do under such circumstances, your time will be wasted trying to fit the real to the theoretical. You have been specially trained for the work of teaching. Take your place in that work with every confidence in your self that you are thoroughly capable of performing the service.

This confidence in yourself will soon inspire the respect and co-operation of your pupils. Your success as a teacher, will depend upon your first day's work. Some thoughts less act or lack of judgment on your part may repulse your pupils for ever. Your success depends upon exerting yourself to the utmost. Your influence and discipline depend upon the impression the children form of you and no one can judge and form conclusions so quickly as a child. You have the responsibility of shaping the lives of the coming generation. Very much depends upon your example and advice. The most sensitive nature may be hidden beneath the toughest outward appearance. An unkind word may discourage and change the whole life of some orphaned little heart.

You are in a position to give courage and hope, to shape the lives of many to stimulate ambitions and broaden ideas. You are to remind them of their duty as citizens. Your duty is to call forth the best that is in them, to rear their thoughts and lead their desires into paths of great or knowledge.

On Thursday evening the class day program was given, and this was made up of music, recitations, class prophecy, etc., and was given entirely by the members of the school. It was given a cordial invitation to attend, was a very interesting program and was highly appreciated by those in attendance.

BIG CELEBRATION.

All we Need is Good Weather to Make the Fourth a Glorious Day

The celebration of the Fourth of July in Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, is being celebrated in a big way. The celebration will be held on Saturday, July 4th, and will consist of a series of events, including a parade, a picnic, and a fireworks display. The celebration is being organized by the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce, and is expected to attract a large number of visitors to the city.

OUR COUNTRY CORRESPONDENTS

CRANMOOR

Mr. and Mrs. John Rezin of Rhineland have been spending the past week with their cousins Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Rezin. The guests were at one time residents of Wood County and are now on their way home from Everett, Wash., where they went to visit married children. A bright little granddaughter is accompanying them home.

Prof. Cox of Chicago, Director of the U. S. Weather Bureau has again been in this locality, spending Monday with O. G. Malda at the Experimental station.

E. E. Warner has been calling on his neighbors this week in connection with his position as Town Assessor.

Mrs. James Clayton left Wednesday for a short visit at her girlhood home at Rochester, Minn.

The M. O. Potter family are again domiciled at their marsh home at Radolph, where they are erecting a fine large barn.

Miss Evelyn Bennett is the possessor of another diploma, having finished the course at the Wood County Training school. The inclement weather prevented some of her Cranmoor friends from attending the Commencement exercises much to their regret.

Messrs. Gilman Warner and Edward Kruger Jr., and Messrs. William Warner, Myra Kruger and Margaret Kruger attended the dance at Balcock Friday evening. A fine time is reported.

O. G. Malda was a Grand Rapids visitor Saturday.

Less than one fare for the round trip to Shoshoni, Wyoming, the reservation holder. The only all rail route to the reservation is by way of Cheyenne July 10th to 31st at Shoshoni and Lander. Reached only by this line. Write for pamphlets, telling how to take any of these attractive home-stays. Information, maps and pamphlets free on request to W. B. Kniskern, P. O. Box, Chicago, Ill.

O. W. Wilkinson of Philadelphia, and A. U. Cheney of Des Moines, were recent visitors in the cranberry section. These gentlemen are the sales agents for the Eastern and Wisconsin Cranberry Sales Co., and were here on matters of business.

A heavy rainfall visited this section of the world Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, something like three and one-half inches of water falling.

Miss Esther Ahlquist visited her sister in Nekeosa a few days last week.

J. W. Pich drove to Grand Rapids Sunday last.

S. N. Whittlesby transacted business in Nekeosa Monday.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Rice of Wood. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Catnip and my lungs were cured as a matter of fact. I now feel like a new man."—Foley's Honey and Catnip is a safe and reliable remedy for all cases of hemorrhages of the lungs, and is sold by all druggists.

RUDDLEPH.

Rat Shiner spent Sunday in Green Bay visiting with relatives. He was accompanied home by his wife who has been visiting there for several weeks.

Louis Lyons was in Grand Rapids Sunday visiting with his daughters.

Miss Laura Lapham of Nekeosa was a guest at the Dennison home last week.

Will Clark has gone to Bancroft to work in the cranberry for his brother. His sister Grace is also visiting there for a time.

Don't be fooled and made to believe that rheumatism can be cured with local applications. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is the only positive cure for rheumatism. 35 cents, Ten or Tablets. Johnson & Hill Co.

George Fontaine and Miss Annie Vetter of Linwood were married at noon today by Justice Carpenter at his office. The witnesses were Mrs. Phillette Fontaine and L. M. Cronk. The newly married couple will reside in Linwood.—Stevens Point Journal.

The Very Best Remedy For Bowel Trouble.

Mr. M. F. Burroughs, an old and well-known resident of Bluffton, Ind., writes: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used the remedy in my family for several years. I can never without it. This remedy is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? For sale by John E. Daly Drug & Jewelry Co."

MEELAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat. Kinney of Port visited relatives here and in Linwood the latter part of last week.

Miss Doris Warner of this place, came home Friday from Port Edwards where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Chas. Slack.

Andrew Lutz and brother-in-law of Alameda, were up the line looking over land last week.

Miss Anna Lutz visited with relatives at Stevens Point the latter part of last week.

M. H. Munger was a Stevens Point visitor Saturday.

W. R. Ward of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orin's Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."—Daly Drug & Jewelry Co.

Will Care Consumption.

A. A. Haren, Elkhart, Ark., writes: "Foley's Honey and Catnip is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never hear of any one suffering from Hony and Catnip and not being satisfied. Daly Drug & Jewelry Co.

A town which allows its capital to leak out to neighboring towns is like a leaky barrel—it will surely run dry, unless it is repaired, unless the pump can replenish faster than the leaks can drain. Each citizen should ask himself, "Is one of these leaks located at my home?" Do you sleep in some leaky house? Do you give any necessities out of town which could be bought here? Of course all this is "nobody's business" but what is nobody's business is everybody's business. When you sanction one of these leaks you hurt yourself and family just as much as you hurt the home merchant.—Ex.

New Normal President.

Prof. John F. Sims, who has been institute conductor of the state Normal school at River Falls for six years, was on Wednesday last elected president of the state Normal school
at Stevens Point to succeed President
T. B. Pray. The election of Prof.
Sims was not a surprise, as he was one of the first to be mentioned for the position after the board requested President Pray to resign. The salary of President Sims will be $8,000, an increase of $800 over what he has been receiving as institute conductor.

Prof. Sims was unanimously recommended for the position by the committee of three regents appointed some weeks ago to investigate the qualifications of the applicants and report to the board. There were several applicants considered by the committee,
but it is considered Prof. Sims the best qualified.

Prof. Sims has been connected with the River Falls school for the last ten years, for six of which he has been institute conductor, succeeding Prof. John Adrian, who went to California. Prof. Sims is about 40 years old and was reared in Manitowish county. For many years he has been prominent in the educational circles of the state. Curiously enough, he is not a graduate of any normal school or university, but is practically a self-educated man.

Call Him a Fraud.

Schlatter, the "divine healer" who spent a week in this city, was at Stevens Point after leaving here, and it seems that they did not think much of his "healing" propensities over in that neck of the woods. The following from the Gazette is the way they size him up:

Schlatter, the so-called divine healer, but more properly termed the medium fraud, has come and gone,
arriving in Stevens Point last Wednesday and leaving again this morning. On Sunday afternoon he held meetings at Hall's hall, and his whispering, squeaky voice was raised in a tirade of abuse against the national government and the state of Wisconsin, including our laws and form of government. He also abused lawyers and politicians, calling them murderers and thieves, and did not spare the bishops and clergy of the different dominations. His language was not only anarchistic, but was also obscene and sacrilegious.

Notwithstanding, several people went forward to experience his so-called healing powers, and over forty of the deafened ones called at his hotel the first two days of this week and planked down $7 to be prayed over seven times, with the belief that they will be cured "at the end of seven days, according to their faith." At the end of seven days, however, Schlatter
will be far away and his victims will be able to tell more of the past
than they can of the future.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

A New German Library has been received and shelved for circulation.
All new books, numbering from one to sixty (60) inclusive, excepting those of a religious nature, are to be brought to the library for renewal, as promptly as possible.
Circulating numbers of the World's Work and Scribner's magazine have been received. The magazines may be drawn on a "non-fiction" card.
This gives you the privilege of drawing a book and magazine at the same time. If you have not a non-fiction card ask for one the next time you come to the library.

READ THE LABEL.

Some of the Alum Baking Powders Offered by Grocers.

—As is well known, the laws of most States require all baking powders made from alum to show that fact on their labels.

It is not always that the manufacturers comply with the law, or if they do in a technical way the terms used are not intelligible to the average consumer.

For instance "basic aluminum sulfate" is nothing more or less than "alum."

The following list of baking powders containing alum is made up from the official reports of the Food Commissioners or from the report of the U. S.
Agricultural Department at Washington, or other equally reliable authorities.

Baking Powders Containing Alum.
Calumet.....Contains Alum.
Calumet Baking Powder Co., Chicago.
I. O. K. G.....Contains Alum.

The housekeeper should bear in mind that alum costs but two cents a pound while cream of tartar costs thirty. The quality of the powder is therefore usually indicated by the price.

Something About Beell.

Chicago Examiner.—Fred Beell, the Wisconsin wrestler who is now in this city, is out with a sweeping challenge to the mat articles, and is willing to bet his money in defense for his claims. Beell is only a little tellow, hardly weighs more than 135 pounds, yet he declares his firm belief that he can throw John Rooney, 240 pounds; Leo Parullo, 250 pounds;
Jim Parr, 180 pounds; William Donahue, 185 pounds, and further says he can throw any two of them in one night. If he cannot make good this statement he declares he is willing to forfeit his end of the purse.

And the fact that it has proved almost impossible to get any of those men to meet Beell makes it look as if they realize that the little Wisconsin wrestler is too much for them and are sideslipping. Rooney was approached regarding a meeting and refused.
The big copper is a mountain compared to Beell and on paper it looks as if he ought to be able to beat him.
But he does not want to take a chance.
Beell is open in his statement that he can throw Rooney and has hinted that the only way Rooney will give him a chance is with a pledge that he cannot lose.

"Bring them as big as you want and as often as you want; I don't care," says Beell. "What I want is a chance to extend myself. I have been giving exhibitions here and have had to be careful lest I hurt one of the men. The man I would like to get is Rooney. I know I can throw him, and if I don't do it I don't want a cent. I am open to meet anybody in the world on the square,
but will not stop to anybody for all the money in sight. I put Tom Jenkins out of business in his own town. He wanted me to flop to him and when I refused and let the public know why he would not meet me, they made it so hot for him that he can't get a match now in his own town."

Critics who have seen Beell wrestle say that the Wisconsin man is one of the most ferocious wrestlers ever seen on any mat. Indeed Jim Parr, the Englishman, openly refused to meet Beell and gave as his reason the fact that he was afraid of injury
at the hands of the little man.
Beell is small in stature, but is strong as an ox and can bring a tremendous pressure to bear when he has his arms around an opponent's body.
Rooney would be a man for him to meet, but Big Hugh seems to be shy of taking on the little fellow, who weighs over 30 pounds less than he does.

Base Ball.

The city baseball team went to Stevens Point on Sunday and played a game with the team over there, and the result was a victory for the Stevens Pointers by a score of 5 to 3.
Those who saw the game said that it was a good one, and that the home boys put up the best game they have so far this season, but not quite good enough to win.

The Neokosa ball team will cross bats with the city team at the fair grounds on Sunday. Pelot of Brokaw will pitch for Neokosa and a good game is looked for.

The Nationals played with the Eneokosa team at Neokosa on Sunday and lost the game to the Neokosas by a score of 6 to 7.

Wheeler's Sunshine club played the Sulphites from Neokosa on Sunday on the home grounds and the game resulted in a victory for the Neokosa team by a score of 10 to 21.

Teachers' Examinations.

The regular examinations of candidates for teachers' certificates in Wood county for the fall of 1908, will be held as follows:

Grand Rapids, July 16, 17, and 18.
Pittsville, July 19, 20, and 21.
Marshfield, July 23, 24, and 25.
Diploma examinations will be given in connection with each of these regular examinations. Robert Morris,
Co. Supt. of Schools.

Visited by Hail.

A heavy rain and electrical storm visited this section on Monday evening, and later on some of the fell here.
Reports from other parts of the county are to the effect that there was hail in other places, but so far as can be learned no great damage was done.
